Intro:

A young man likes adventure and excitement, yes it's true
He'll walk for miles to strike out on his own
Yet, something tugs his heart-line
His head is out on cloud nine
He can feel it by the rail line
Through the gang signs and the cheap wine
He'll walk for miles to find his way back home…

I'll never let you go when it's
Late past midnight you can know
I'll be at your side, as long as you want me,
As far as you want to go…

A woman filled with longing for just one man can't be swayed
She'll walk for miles through disappointment and despair
She'll hang on through the heartbreak
And take any excuse that's half-baked
She'll pray for God at daybreak
To let good come from his mistakes
She'll walk for miles when he says he needs her there….

A man can find it hard to say the words of love, it's true
He'll walk for miles through the world as in a trance
He'll lay awake at midnight
Afraid to speak of love just outright
And he wonders if she's alright
And he'll jump to play the white knight
He'll walk for miles when he's caught up in romance…

I'll never let you go when it's
Late past midnight you can know
I'll be at your side, as long as you want me,
As far as you want to go…
