Tired And Worn ©2015 William C. Kelly

Saturday on Main St. in a “one cafe” town
Ten in the morning, it’s already shut down

Chorus:
Home is where the heart is,
and every rose has its thorn
As I stand alone on Main St.,
My heart is tired and worn…

I walked on (down the street), and in a block or two,
A sign at the “Lonely-Heart” said, “Baby, this means you!”

Chorus

I’m aching, I’m aching, my heart is aching, ooohh…

Chorus

SOLO…

I’ve seen sunny days in Chicago and Millinocket, Maine
When I get home to my house, it’s always wind and rain

Chorus

Tired And Worn ©2015 William C. Kelly

Gonna find a shack on the water where I can sit and pine
But it won't be long before I, follow the highway signs

Chorus

I'm aching, I'm aching, my heart is aching, ooohh…

Chorus

As I stand alone on Main St.,
My heart is tired and worn…
