Don't Fall For A Machine by Willy Kelly

Oh love can take you 'round and 'round, and 'round if you don't watch your step
The gentle times can be so fine but That's not always all you get

Don't fall for a machine, don’t, fall for "just anyone"
Don't fall for a machine, don't fall for "just anyone"...

Now the lonely days when they come by are
All that you can think about
In hopes someone will soon appear to Cure you of your pain and doubt

But the tall dark stranger rarely cures us
Of our aimless longing
The magic potion we desire
Is usually made of simpler things

Don't fall for a machine, don’t, fall for "just anyone"
Don't fall for a machine, don't fall for "just anyone"...

Now when you choose someone to share your longing and your secrets with Don't be too quick to give your all,
You deserve the best
That anyone has got to offer you
If you go for less that's what you'll get
The one that looks for love that's real
Is the one who finally wins

Now someone treats you without a care
For what you think and how you feel
Even if you're sure they'll change
With all that change there's no good deal
So now don't be bitter, don't regret the Times you've spent with someone wrong for you
Have faith, don't be afraid and
When it's time to move along

Don't fall for a machine, don’t, fall for "just anyone"
Don't fall for a machine, don't fall for "just anyone"...
From the CD "Another Day" ©2002